Why is Ad Creative and Copywriting Important?

The average person is bombarded by hundreds of adverts every day. And yet a well designed and crafted ad can still capture their attention and imagination. It's important to let people know your business exists on a regular basis, especially as someone will need to see a brand name multiple times before they automatically think of it – that's why big brands spend so much on advertising and sponsorships.

Exactly the same techniques work for small businesses, and by targeting a smaller audience which is closest to your ideal customers, it will work more effectively within your budget.
